NEW YORK (AP) — The chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship in the presence of the Russian ambassador to the United States, accused the Central Intelligence Agency Wednesday night of paying American travelers in Russia to spy for the United States.

Dr. Corliss Lamont made the accusation before 1,900 persons at a rally celebrating the 30th anniversary of diplomatic relations between this country and Russia and the 46th anniversary of the founding of the Soviet state.

After noting that "we can be glad" that Yale Prof. Frederick Barghorn was safe at home after being accused of spying in Russia, he said: "It is an undoubted fact that the CIA does try to get tourists and scholars to do espionage for the U.S. while they are traveling in the Soviet Republic."

Constitution Changes Planned

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Scranton administration began Wednesday to draw plans to revise the state constitution by the amendment process.

Scranton announced the formation of a committee to prepare detailed amendments which will be submitted to the 1964 General Assembly with administration support.

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, who served as co-chairman of a bipartisan committee for a constitutional convention, will head the committee. He will be joined by Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alesandroni and William A. Schneider, director of the Pennsylvania Bar Association's "Project Constitution," an amendment revision program.

Anne Frank Gestapo Jailed

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austrian authorities probed Wednesday into the wartime activities of a Vienna police officer who as a member of the German Gestapo helped arrest Anne Frank, author of the diary which immortalized the ordeal of Jews in Nazi-occupied Holland.

The officer, Inspector Karl Silberbauer, 52, disclosed his role in the 1944 arrest of the Frank family in Amsterdam when confronted with evidence gathered by the Ministry of the Interior.

300 Iraqi Students Protest

LONDON (AP) — Three hundred Iraqi students protesting Monday's army coup in Baghdad occupied Iraq's Embassy for six hours Wednesday. Then they filed out peacefully, claiming they had achieved their objectives.

The demonstrators had said they would stay in the embassy for weeks if necessary. But they quit after a four-man deputation held talks with Ambassador Abdul Bazzaz.

Senate Cuts Moon Shot Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted to trim $90 million from the civilian space program Wednesday after rejecting a move to slash the man-on-the-moon project by $519 million.

Senators who have been casting a jaundiced eye at the moon shot program sealed their victory by killing 41-38 an attempt to reconsider the 40-39 vote by which the $90 million cut was approved.

Viet Nam Parley

HONOLULU (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed Wednesday "all aspects of the situation in South Viet Nam" with the secretary of defense, military strategists and the U.S. ambassador to that troubled country.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A proposal of a 2-for-1 stock split by American Telephone helped spur stock market averages to a substantial gain Wednesday but losers still outnumbered gainers in the over-all list. Trading was active.

The market could only be called mixed, despite the fact that the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues made a substantial advance of 5.41 at 742.06.

Volume swelled to 5.34 million shares from Tuesday's 4.44 million.

Cambodia Threatens Asian Balance

SAYS U.S. AID REFUSED — Ruling Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia said he had decided to terminate at once the $30-million-a-year program of U. S. military and economic aid to his country which he said was being used to undermine his regime.

AP NEWS ANALYSIS
By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cambodia's sudden cancellation of U.S. economic and military aid is a psychological setback for the West, with overtones that will be felt throughout Southeast Asia, experts here believe.

U.S. officials reluctantly reached this conclusion Wednesday, but retained some hope that Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, would maintain the neutrality and independence of his kingdom.

The possibility always remained that he would change his mind about U.S. assistance.

Neutralist Survival

If Sihanouk maintains his present hostility toward the West and turns to Communist China for aid, the following conclusions are indicated, the experts said:

1. Sihanouk feels neutralist Cambodia can survive only by making a deal with Communist China and turning away from the West.

This could substantially increase the opportunity for Peking to influence the internal policies of the Cambodian government.

2. It could lead to relaxation of the Cambodian army's program of establishing mobile battalions on the nation's borders.

The United States has been helping the 30,000-man Cambodian army convert a number of regiments into border patrol battalions, but that program now will be halted. The objective had been to prevent the use of Cambodia as a refuge or point of supply for Communist-led forces in South Viet Nam and Laos.

Security Threats

3. If Cambodia becomes deeply committed to Peking influence, this would open up a new and threatening front to the security of Thailand along its border with Cambodia. This area has never been a serious source of Communist infiltration in the past.

4. The effect on Laos also would be unsettling. This country has had great difficulty making neutrality work because of its leftist, neutralist, and rightist factions.

The effect in South Viet Nam, where a new government is struggling to secure full popular support in the war against the Viet Cong, also could be serious.

If there is increased friction between Viet Nam and Cambodia, the 60,000 Cambodians living in Viet Nam could be a troublesome group.

Work on U. S. aid projects actually halted yesterday after Sihanouk's speech. American officials said the various aid programs would have to be phased out as fast as possible but that offices would have to be closed, equipment sold or put in warehouses and arrangements made for Cambodian employees of the aid missions.

Cambodia has a foreign exchange reserve of about $90 million which should keep the little southeast Asian nation solvent for several years. But a break in economic ties with the United States is expected to hit the Cambodian economy hard, and a general austerity program appears inevitable.

Funds derived from the U. S. commercial import program in Cambodia paid for about 40 per cent of the upkeep of the nation's small armed forces, but most of the military training is handled by a French mission of about 800 men. Presumably the French will remain.

Cambodia also receives some economic aid from the Soviet Union and Communist China. The Communists are expected to increase this.

Congolese Mum On Jailed Reds

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Congolese government remained silent Wednesday on the fate of two Soviet diplomats who were dragged from their car, beaten and hustled off in an army truck Tuesday.

Premier Cyrille Adoula met with his Cabinet to study what some sources said were incriminating documents seized from the Russians.

In Moscow, the Kremlin claimed the arrests were a U.S.- and Belgian-inspired provocation.

There was no official word on the reason for the arrests, but the Russians apparently were under suspicion of participating in antigovernment activities.

They were seized on their return from Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, where extremist nationalist opponents of the Congolese government are in exile. They were reported to have been under surveillance for some time.

Services Cut

The Congolese cut off electrical and telephone service to the luxury apartment building which provides office facilities and living quarters for the 100-man Soviet mission. Gendarmes outside the building refused to allow visitors to enter.

Soviet officials also said a Soviet cultural attaché, Valery Tcherpatchenko, was arrested by Congolese police just outside the embassy when he tried to see what had happened to two Czech diplomats who also were detained.

They said Tcherpatchenko and the Czechs were forced to stand all night in a tropical downpour.

The incidents were described by Soviet officials as "a severe provocation."

Sharp Protests

Reaction in Moscow was equally sharp. The government newspaper Izvestia called the arrest of the two diplomats a "shameful provocation" which it blamed on the influence of Belgian and U.S. advisers to the Congolese government.

The arrests came only a few weeks after members of Adoula's government demanded a break in relations with the Communist bloc and the United Arab Republic for aiding in plots to overthrow the government.

Caracas Terrorists Kill 4, Wound 14

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Police and troops with automatic weapons and bazookas battled terrorists in downtown Caracas Wednesday, the second day of a pro-Communist campaign of terror in the capital.

Judges Disbar Hoffa Lawyer In Tampering

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Two federal judges charged Wednesday night that an attempt had been made on influencing a prospective juror in Tamara's President James R. Hoffa's upcoming trial on jury-tampering charges.

Dist. Judges William E. Miller and Frank Gray Jr. disbarred the attorney, Z. T. Osborn Jr. of Nashville, from practice in federal court for his alleged participation in the attempt.

The judges said Osborn approached Nashville metropolitan policeman Robert D. Vick Nov. 11 and requested the officer to contact Ralph A. Elliott, a prospective juror, about the pending Hoffa trial.

Osborn proposed to pay the prospective juror $5,000 if and when he was selected on the trial jury and an additional $5,000 at the end of the trial, if the Teamster president was not convicted, the judges said.

When the firing died in the El Silencio district of modern buildings and towering government offices, 4 persons were unofficially reported dead and 14 other Venezuelans, one a policeman, were wounded. The dead included a 27-year-old housewife shot on a street.

Thus the troubled Venezuelan capital counted a toll of 24 dead and 84 wounded since the Castroite underground struck Tuesday morning in its attempt to topple President Romulo Betancourt's government.

Arrests of terrorists rose to 150 and included Victor Jose Ochoa, leader of the student wing of the leftist Republican Democratic Union party. He was captured in a house with stolen military uniforms.

Backed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba, the terrorists also hope to block the presidential elections set for Dec. 1. President Kennedy has laid the terror campaign at the door of international Communists "aided by their Cuban allies" and has promised Betancourt full U.S. support.

Violence also was reported from the interior for the second day in a row. A bomb exploded in a city bus at Barquisimeto, wounding a woman and a child. A telephone exchange was bombed in Maracay.

Unlike Tuesday, when telephone threats forced merchants to close shops and motorists were frightened off the streets, Caracas took the day's fighting almost casually.

Rusk Snubs 'Hot Party Line' For NATO Allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican group in Congress urged that all the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies be plugged in on the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk replied that it isn't really necessary.

"The purposes of communication with our allies are entirely different from those of the 'hot line,' being directed toward the prevention of catastrophe in a moment of crisis," Rusk wrote to Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn.

The GOP group told the President "we are deeply concerned about the adverse psychological impact" of the hot line which "bypasses our NATO partners completely."

AT&T Ups Dividend, Plans Split

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. passed out a giant stack of blue chips Wednesday by raising the common stock dividend, proposing a 2-for-1 stock split and cutting shareowners in on the largest single corporate financing effort ever attempted.

The dividend increase of 11 per cent, to $1 a share quarterly from 90 cents, is effective next April. It will be the third in the last 43 years for the bluest of the blue chip companies.

At a regular monthly meeting, directors recommended the second split in company history, to be made next June if the company's 2.2 million stockholders approve at the April 15 annual meeting.

The only other AT&T stock split was announced in 1958 and was 3 for 1.

1 For 20

AT&T, parent company of the nationwide Bell System, will follow custom and do its own financing by offering stockholders of record Feb. 18, 1964, one share of stock for every 20 held. The price, which will be "some-what" below the market price, will be fixed at that time.

Based upon current values, the financing would easily raise a billion dollars. The last AT&T stock offering in March 1961 raised $961,175,302 and was the company's most successful ever raised by any company at one time. That offering resulted in the sale of 11,176,457 shares.

Response to the AT&T action on Wall Street was immediate. A lagging stock market forged to a substantial gain A T & T stock, which opened at $132 a share, had gained $1 at first.

When word from the directors' meeting came about 12:40 p.m., AT&T sold at $135.88. The price moved up steadily, touching a record high of $140 a share shortly before the close. It closed at $139.63, just below the previous high of $139.88 set Dec. 14, 1961. It was the most active stock of the day.

AFL-CIO Protests Phony Record

NEW YORK (AP) — The AFL-CIO charged the American Medical Association with distributing a phony record misrepresenting a steelworkers official as a tough-talking labor leader who threatens union members to collect political funds.

AFL-CIO President George Meany announced that the steelworkers official, Paul Normile of Pittsburgh, has filed a $400,000 damage suit against the AMA in federal court in Washington.

The suit sought the damages for alleged violation of privacy and libel.

Normile, at a news conference Wednesday, said he never made such a speech, nor was any such union meeting held, as represented on the record.

Record Distributed

Normile's suit charges that the record has been widely distributed by the AMA and the American Medical Political Action Committee, established by the AMA.

Meany, Normile and President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union said the record was completely fraudulent.

The record, played at the news conference, represents Normile as telling a group of labor leaders that the steelworkers' Dist. 16 must "kick in" $146,000 to the Committee on Political Education, the AFL-CIO's political arm, to fight for medical care legislation in Congress.

"No ifs ands or buts," the voice on the record says. "For those who don't want to give, you shop stewards can always let them know there's still a graveyard shift. They'll kick in."

AMA headquarters in Chicago said it was withholding any comment until it can learn details of the suit.

McDonald and Normile said they supported medical care legislation, but would never use such tactics as represented on the record.

After Meany's announcement to the 1,200 delegates of Normile's suit, the convention passed a resolution calling for Congress to make medical care "the first priority for Social Security legislation."

Flack Fights Luzerne County Loss Of One Senate Seat

HARRISBURG (AP) — Internal opposition forced Senate Republicans Wednesday to put off a final showdown vote until at least next week on their reapportionment bill.

Majority Leader James S. Berger, R-Potter, confirmed reports that three Republicans are holding out against the measure.

"I have no idea now when we will be able to pass the bill," Berger said.

Two of the reported holdouts, Sens. Thomas A. Ehrgood, R-Lebanon, and Harold E. Flack, R-Luzerne, stated flatly they are opposed to the bill as written.

The third, Sen. Richard C. Frame, R-Venango, refused to comment on questions about his stand.

Amendments Asked

At the same time, Democrats tried to have the bill sent back to committee for further study and introduced resolutions calling for amendments to the state constitution changing the apportionment laws.

No action was taken on the resolutions. The Senate adjourned until Monday at 3 p.m. after Republicans spent over two hours behind closed doors in an effort to iron out their differences. The House was not in session Wednesday. It adjourned Tuesday until Monday at 11 a.m.

With the turn of events, hope of getting the Senate bill through by Thanksgiving looked dim. Berger said he was under pressure to confine next week's session to two days.

Administration leaders in the House are confident of putting their bill through Monday.

"I am still unalterably opposed to this bill," Ehrgood repeated several times after the GOP caucus. His main objection is the proposed merger of Lebanon and Schuylkill counties.

Morse Repeats Court Action

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse threatened again Wednesday to go to court if the reapportionment legislation before the General Assembly is passed in its present form.

Morse repeated his threat of legal action in a statement. He said:

"If this travesty of the democratic process is rammed through the General Assembly and becomes law, then . . . the people who have been disenfranchised . . . will be heard . . . in the last resort left to the people—the legal process of the courts . . ."

He chided the Republican majority by adding:

"Under the Republican concept of equal representation under the law, all men are equal except that Republicans are more equal than anyone else; and even under that ridiculous concept of equality, conservative Republicans are more equal than their liberal Republican counterparts."

Scranton Talks Quietly Against Party Battle

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Wednesday he wants to meet with potential Republican presidential candidates to discuss the political situation in Pennsylvania.

"I'm not going to ask them to do anything one way or the other, nor would I," Scranton told a group of college newspaper representatives.

He made the statement on the eve of a meeting with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in New York. Rockefeller is the only announced candidate for the GOP nomination at San Francisco next year.

A similar meeting with Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, scheduled for Wednesday, was postponed following the death of Goldwater's mother-in-law.

"The point of the discussions is not to ask them or to supplicate in any way for their assistance," the governor said later in clarifying his statements at the news conference. He added:

"My point is to describe for them my own personal opinion of the Pennsylvania political situation, especially with reference to what this means for the best possible campaign for victory in 1964."

"Then clearly, upon hearing my exposition, it is up to them to decide what they intend to do

"We would prefer uniting with Lancaster or Dauphin counties, but not Schuylkill," he said. Presently Lebanon is linked with the northern half of Lancaster County.

Flack, too, stated he could not vote for the bill because it cuts Luzerne County's senatorial representation from two to one.

Atty. General Walter E. Alesandroni told Flack Tuesday the population of Luzerne County merits only one senator.

Sens. Flack and Martin L. Murray, D-Luzerne, feel however that they have more people than the 1960 census showed and are entitled to two senators.

Frame is reportedly unhappy over the taking away of Warren County from his district.

Constitution

The Democratic resolutions, offered by Sen. Paul W. Mahady, D-Westmoreland, were referred to the Senate Committee on Resolutions without a vote. The Republicans were still in caucus at the time.

The first would allow senatorial districts to be created without regard for county boundaries. Under present law, counties cannot be divided and placed with other counties to form districts.

Mahady said the resolution also would throw out the limit of eight senators in Philadelphia and put it on the basis of population.

The second resolution called for runoff elections next year in areas where one senator is being eliminated and another taking over his district.

Governor Criticizes Tax On Text Books

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton discussed politics, drinking on campus and taxes on textbooks in a frolicsome news conference Wednesday with college newspaper editors and student journalists.

Approximately 100 young men and women crowded into the executive reception room for the hour-long meeting with the governor.

While touching on politics briefly, to which the governor made some interesting replies, the embryo journalists devoted most of their questions to what government is or isn't doing about education.

The governor said he would work strongly at the next session of the legislature to eliminate the state sales tax on textbooks.

State College Aid

He advised the group his administration also is working on a master plan to determine a more equitable disbursement of state aid to state-owned and state-aided colleges and universities.

"I am not completely happy with the present method of funds allocation, but the solution rests with the new state board of education," he said.

The governor told the students that some $72 million in state aid to private colleges and other institutions is being delayed by the reprehensible political maneuvering of the Democratic party.

He added that he is hopeful the stalemate on approval of payment of the monies can be broken after the current special legislative session on reapportionment.

No Negro Bias

On other college questions, Scranton said he knows of no intentional discrimination in the ratio of Negro and white students at West Chester (predominantly white) and Cheyney (predominantly Negro) state colleges.

He also explained that the state sales tax rate of 5 per cent may be the highest in the nation, but declared that it exacts less per capita than in states which have a lower tax but levy it on clothing and food.

Scranton said he would be happy to see qualified women have an opportunity to be vice president or president.

The governor reiterated that he is not a candidate for either president or vice president and that he doesn't believe pure, honest drafts exist.

Goldwater Meet Cancelled

"That is why I want to meet with both of these gentlemen," he said. He meant Rockefeller and Goldwater. A scheduled meeting with Goldwater in Washington Wednesday morning was cancelled because of the death of Goldwater's mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Davis Johnson, in Phoenix.

Sources close to Goldwater—who has not formally announced any intention to seek the GOP nomination — indicated they would do nothing to stop Goldwater's supporters from seeking a pledge slate in Pennsylvania despite an appeal by the Republican State Committee against any such action.

To Avoid Fight

Though Scranton said he would not ask prospective candidates to avoid pledged delegates, he made it clear that he doesn't like the idea of a GOP factional fight next spring.

Scranton said he would prefer to see an uncommitted delegation as a means of preserving party unity. Scranton has said previously that if party leaders wanted him, he would be a favorite son candidate in order to preserve Pennsylvania delegation solidarity.

"An uncommitted delegation is the most unified force we could have," said Scranton.

Eastburg Awaits Action In Washington

Water Plant Depends On 'If'

By JIM SHAFER
Daily Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — If the little word which many situations hinge on is "the" word heard in the East Stroudsburg Borough's Municipal office these days.

The borough submitted an application to the Public Works Administration for $343,994 on Nov. 16 for financial aid to construct a new water filtering plant.

If the application for federal funds is approved in Washington, East Stroudsburg will build a new filtration plant, Sterling Cramer, borough manager, said yesterday.

U. S. Senators Joseph S. Clark and Hugh Scott, along with U. S. Representative Fred R. Rooney, have been contacted and asked to aid the borough in getting the application approved.

As the application stands, the only known fact at present is that it is in Washington, D. C. and is under consideration.

Matching Fund Basis
The $343,994 is on a matching fund basis and leaves the same amount to be contributed by the borough for the construction of a proposed water filtration plant in Smithfield Twp. near the borough's reservoir.

The proposed $687,988 plant will be located near the intersection of Twp. Rts. 515 and 508. Both routes go north off Rt. 101. Rt. 515 goes from near Tru-Matic Tool Co. north to the reservoir and Rt. 508 travels north to the reservoir from near the Beakleyville Baptist Church.

Intake, Treatment Plant
The proposed plant is termed a waterworks intake and water treatment plant of the rapid sand type with a nominal capacity of 2,000,000 gallons of water daily to serve residents of the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

The present water supply operation is geared to produce 1,500,000 gallons daily. The new plant will increase this by 500,000 gallons a day.

Water will be piped into the plant in a new 16-inch main from the middle dam. This is a distance of approximately 800 feet.

The intake dam, with a capacity of 7,000,000 gallons, will be used as a storage reservoir and will be used only in an emergency. The capacity of the middle dam reservoir is 50,000,000 gallons.

The purpose of the new plant is to permit effective treatment of water of taste and odors at all times. The water will be treated and will leave the plant uniformly clear, colorless and of safe sanitary quality.

Cramer said that in addition to these advantages the new plant will offer the borough clearance to use the same water mains now in operation.

There are two lines from the reservoir to East Stroudsburg—one 12-inch and one 16-inch.

Special Hearing On Jobless

HARRISBURG (AP)—A newly created legislative task force on unemployment compensation has called a special hearing for Dec. 11 to sound out public sentiment.

Sen. Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, chairman of the task force, said yesterday employer and employee groups across the state would be invited to testify.

The task force will make recommendations on legislation for building up the state's unemployment compensation reserve fund.

Stroup said the task force spent some time Tuesday reviewing the history of unemployment compensation in the state and considering the urgency of the problem.

"We plan to schedule more hearings later," Stroup said. The task force is made up of six senators and 12 representatives.

35-Point Deer Last Day Victim

HOPE, Ark. (AP) — Eugene Harris of Saratoga, Ark., killed a 35-point deer yesterday, near Hope on the last day of Arkansas' first deer hunting period.

The 275-pound buck, estimated to be 10 years old, was being chased by dogs when Harris shot him in the neck with a .12-gauge shotgun from a distance of 34 steps.

frame and suspension and steering and wheels and most other things are. Good and new.) "If only the Le Mans came in a hardtop," someone else said. There's a planned coincidence for you. It just came. ## State College Aid

One of the first responsibilities of the new State Council of Higher Education is to adopt a firm policy to clear up incredible inequalities in the allocation of state tax money to private and public colleges in Pennsylvania.

The new council might well start with three pointed questions asked by the Council of Alumni Associations of the State Colleges of Pennsylvania:

1. Why does Pennsylvania — alone among all the states — spend millions in subsidies to private colleges?

2. Why, when state colleges continually enroll more Pennsylvania students and graduate more, do the private schools receive a greater share of the state's higher education dollar?

3. Why, if Pennsylvania State University receives more state-aid than all 14 state colleges put together, under the guise of being more of a state institution than a private corporation, it is not controlled legally and financially by the state—as the 14 state colleges are?

Briefly, these are the facts of present state aid to private and public colleges: In the 1962-63 year, $15 million went to the 14 state colleges, like the East Stroudsburg State College. At the same time, $41 million went to a helter-skelter collection of 16 private colleges, universities and professional schools.

Pennsylvania State University took the lion's share with a $20 million appropriation — about half of the funds given to private colleges.

The University of Pennsylvania, Temple University and the University of Pittsburgh followed with about $5 million each — more than any single state college.

Inequalities are even more pronounced in state aid for capital construction. An equal amount — $121.5 million — has been spent through the General State Authority for construction at state and private colleges totaling $243 million.

But state college students pay $3 a week toward the cost of dormitories—a fee which amounted to $1.8 million this year—while private colleges are not required to pay back one cent for that

It is clearly unfair for private colleges to build new classrooms and dormitories with state funds and pay back nothing while state college students are helping to pay the state back for use of the same amount of taxpayers' money.

This discrimination clearly should be corrected by legislation requiring private colleges and universities to pay money back to the state as "rentals" or bond amortization on new buildings.

The question of state aid to private colleges for operating expenses is more complicated.

It is argued with some reason that the state would have to build new colleges if the private colleges do not flourish and grow.

But as the biggest recipient of all, Penn State University President Eric Walker said, "If you give money to Penn, why don't you give it to Swarthmore, or to Lafayette, or to Carnegie Tech? Someone has to make this decision. At the present time it is sort of left to chance. And this just doesn't make much sense."

We agree. The new State Council of Higher Education should draw up uniform regulations and qualifications for state aid to private institutions and must adopt some formula for dispensing state aid.

Under the present high pressure political system, politician graduates of each private institution receiving state aid jockey for more and more funds in an irrational and eventually disastrous race for money.

Pennsylvania taxpayers should not be asked to foot a bill which is added up in this manner.

Instead of being treated as disinherited children, the state colleges should receive more state aid and the private institutions, if they are to continue receiving it, should be placed on a strict formula and should be subjected to some kind of state control.

As it is, millions of dollars are being fed to private institutions with almost no strings attached.

Comment Of The Day

"It isn't what I say about running, but what I do that counts. I have no pollster. I have no political adviser, no speech writer, no press aide . . .

"I say if a man doesn't run now, he won't be running later. One man you should watch is Scranton. He is the most likely dark horse at this time, but he needs national identification, and now.

"Some people write in a challenging fashion. What's wrong, they ask, are you afraid of Kennedy?

"No one knows better than I what a formidable candidate he is. I'm not afraid of him. Running against him next time will be running against all his money, the federal treasury and all kinds of public relations. Kennedy will shoot the works."

—Former Vice President Richard Nixon in a Time Magazine interview.

Happy Expecting?

WASHINGTON — Let's say you are ingesting a bowl of the traditional bean soup in the Senate dining room, and you overhear a couple of Republican senators ask each other about a rumor that Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller is expecting a baby. You look up at this, and while you are looking up, it slowly dawns upon you that you are staring straight at "Happy" Rockefeller in person. . .

Then it also dawns upon you that the gentleman with her who is looking right and left, although there is nothing on the left but a wall, is her second husband, and that he is the self-same Governor of New York who has been mentioned — often by himself — as a Presidential possibility. . .

Then you turn your head so far to follow her you almost treat yourself to an earful of soup, and in comes Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine looking as formidable as President Kennedy describes her at his last news conference.

But she does not make straight for the man she may either fight for the GOP Presidential nomination, or tie-in with for the Vice Presidency. She goes first and shakes hands with a tableful of Communists. . .

Then Senator Kenneth Keating, who is splitting the tab with Senator Jacob Javits to feed the Governor of their State and his lady, strides over to Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania and asks him to come and say something to Gov. Rockefeller. . .

Then, Senator Clark bends the other way, out of earshot of Senator Keating and says, very drolly, to Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia:

"What will I say to him; 'How's my first cousin?' —"

Then Senator Randolph, a Democrat like Senator Clark, scratches his head, and finally says he gets it: that Mary Todhunter Clark is Rockefeller's first wife. . .

Then another big Democrat checks in with New York's GOP Governor. Then he comes over to where Senator Randolph is sitting with Gov. William W. Barron of West Virginia, and Federal Housing Administration Commissioner Philip N. Brownstein. He confides he has just asked Rocky about the rumors that Happy is expecting, and that all Rocky does is laugh uproariously and say he's heard the rumors ever since they were married, and expects to continue hearing them. . .

Then Senator Smith shakes hands unfondly with the Soviet Women touring the U.S. as the guests of the Committee for International Friendly Visits, and tells their shepherd, Annalee Stewart, of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, to tell them she is glad to see them. Then she goes over and shakes hands with the Rockefeller. . .

Then Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican for the Presidential candidacy of Gov. William Scranton, comes in with two college prexies, seats himself between the Rockefeller and the Red ladies, and says he is a Buffer State. . .

Then Former National Presidents of the American Legion, Paul Griffith and Jack Gleason, and former President of the Veterans of Foreign Wars James Van Zandt, halt an earnest huddle (somebody says jovially they are holding a peace conference) and bestow equally wintery smiles upon the Rockefeller and the Soviet females. . .

Question Of Hearings

HARRISBURG — Should Pennsylvania's taxpaying public be heard — or ignored?

In a sense this seems like an insane question, hardly worth asking or answering. The answer of course seemingly should be one of: why of course the public should be heard (you nut!) — if the public is concerned.

All of this is very interesting. — Interesting from the standpoint that certainly the legislative branch (as the supposedly "true" representative of the public) would be among the very first to unplug ears in a valiant effort to learn everything possible about the (their) public wishes.

But is this the case here on Capitol Hill among the legislative brethren?

Perhaps there is nothing better than the current special session of the Legislature in which to find an illustrative answer. A look at the record in this respect is interesting.

The current special session, now in its second week, has only one subject with which to fiddle — the question of reapportioning Pennsylvania's House and Senate districts, as required by the Constitution (but gracefully ignored by the Senate for nearly the past half century!).

Minority Democratic lawmakers in both House and Senate have called for public hearings on the question of reapportionment, expressing somewhat violent opposition to the redistricting proposals of in-control administration Republican lawmakers. Democrats feel they are being heavily gerrymandered (which is neither here nor there at the moment for the immediate purpose of this column).

Republican lawmakers on the other hand have turned a plugged ear to minority requests for public airing of the redistricting proposals.

Meanwhile, Democratic minority lawmakers — strictly on their own — went ahead Monday with their own hearings. The hearings as such have no official status, of course, insofar as the legislative bodies are concerned; they represent only the action of one unofficial "wing," "element" or "bloc" of a legislative political group without official status.

Most certainly from a politically strategic standpoint, one of the main objectives of Democrats in clamoring for public hearings is delay in the GOP-sponsored reapportionment plan with the hope of having public opposition force junking of the proposal.

But — by the same token, if Republicans are on the "right" side and have done what they believe is best and most equitable "for" the public (they too represent) wouldn't they support the public in public hearings? Of course.

However there is another major factor that must be considered. Highly explosive and controversial legislation almost inevitably runs into trouble when fully aired, with the result that solid heretofore "yea" votes begin to waver.

Hence the strategy in steam-rolling such legislation before "public" reaction begins to gel — as in the case of the notorious and healthy $300 million pay increase ("expense") legislators voted themselves (whipped through both houses in record time) in 1959.

The GOP attitude on public hearings on the reapportionment question was perhaps succinctly summed up by Governor Scranton at a press conference recently when in reply to a reporter's query he said:

"Quite frankly, everybody within the Legislature is knowledgeable on reapportionment. I can't see any necessity for having public hearings with regard to it. This is a matter of law and fairness, and arranging an arrangement of it as good as they can come up with, and get the votes to pass it, which is one of the great problems."

All of which unquestionably is a honed political truism — but the question recurs as to why the public (whose interests in this case particularly are affected) can't at least be heard?

Taxpayer Protests DPA, Surplus Food 'Chiselers'

Editor, The Daily Record: I firmly believe it's about time someone did something about these chiselers on D. P. A. and the other chiselers drawing surplus food.

One particular member of the D. P. A. "Club," a loud-mouthed alcoholic, constantly brags: "Why should I work? I get $109 every two weeks sitting on my can doing nothing. Been doing it for two years now." Yet this excuse for a man owns a car and is in constant scrapes with the law.

Another family I am aware of appears at the courthouse each time surplus food is distributed, yet they own their own home, have two cars and are steadily employed. These are only two cases of which I have personal knowledge. I know there are many others.

My wife and I both work every day and it irks us considerably to see these D. P. A. bums, who are perfectly able-bodied, living on the tax monies we pay. It irks us even more when we realize that no one is going to force them to work.

It must be a nice feeling to run up utility and heat bills as high as you want to and know that the welfare people will take care of it. So "why work? Besides liquor and beer is what D. P. A. is for."

Forester Thanks Newspaper, Public For Fire Prevention

Editor, The Daily Record: I want to thank you and the Daily Record staff for the excellent coverage which was given to forest fire prevention during the recent forest fire emergency.

I am certain that by keeping the public well informed of conditions in this area you directly helped to prevent many fires.

I would also like to thank the general public for their cooperation in observing the no smoking, no burning ban. During the period of the extreme emergency, the majority of the fires were caused by transient persons or were deliberately set.

Your continued support of our fire prevention campaigns will undoubtedly help reduce the number of fires. It is becoming more evident that "Everyone Loses When Forests Burn."

Rebellion Against Stupidity

Editor, The Daily Record: What we are witnessing in our time, all over the world, is—and this should be clear to most persons of intelligence—Rebellion against the stupidity of persons in authority—in all fields of endeavor—against civilization as we know it.

JOHN RUSSEL HILE

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon himself is partly to blame for the slow progress on the $1 billion tax-cutting bill in the Senate Finance Committee.

While President Kennedy is using every occasion to declaim on the urgent need for enactment of this long-considered legislation, the backstage record reveals that the chief to submit certain important information is causing some of the Senate committee's deliberateness.

More than three weeks ago Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., a top committeeman and former University of Chicago economics professor, asked Dillon for detailed data on two mystery-shrouded issues, and he has yet to supply it.

One of these potential bombshells involves the personal holding company section of the tax measure as passed by the House in late September.

The Allen-Scott Report

Tax Bill Delay

Paul Scott

A relative of a high administration official is reputedly directly interested in his provision which Dillon has admitted to the committee "was worked on by my staff at some length . . . and is acceptable to us."

The other matter relates to a group of individuals who didn't pay a cent in taxes, although having incomes of $1 million or more.

In addition to questioning Dillon personally about these issues, Douglas has written him two letters dealing with them individually. But the Treasury head has yet to reply, and until he does the committee is withholding action.

Mysterious "Loophole" — A tip from a Treasury source led Senator Douglas, whose left arm was permanently disabled in combat as a Marine officer in the Pacific, to inquire about the mysterious provision that was incorporated in the personal holding company section in the House.

According to the informant, this new provision would give a few wealthy beneficiaries, notably the relative of the high-placed official, "considerable tax-free sanctuary."

During Dillon's appearance before the Senate committee, Douglas questioned him closely about this matter, as follows:

Douglas: "Are there provisions in the personal holding company sections of the House bill that either arise from or are specifically designed to accommodate the case of one or a few specific taxpayers? If so, would you identify the provisions and the case that gives rise to them?"

Dillon: "I think there was a very large business enterprise that would have been caught under these provisions as enacted."

Douglas: "Would you give us a rough outline of that enterprise?"

Dillon: "It is a very large enterprise; many millions of dollars; $50 million or more."

Douglas: "And the stock of that corporation is held by how many people?"

Dillon: "I'm not familiar with it, but it is one family."

Douglas: "One family?"

Dillon: "Yes, one family. . . They were primarily interested in these transitional arrangements so they could rearrange their corporate set-up and liquidate from a personal holding company position."

There also was one other I am told which had to do with a provision inserted in the bill dealing with the liquidation of foreign personal holding companies, which also rose out of the problem of a particular case."

Douglas: "Would you furnish the number of instances where the corporate shield has been used obviously to avoid taxation or to reduce taxation?"

Dillon: "If we can find the specific instances, we will furnish them, but without giving the names."

Douglas: "When we were considering the 1950 tax bill, the Treasury submitted for the record figures on ten individual oil operators showing their net income exclusive of oil, their percentage depletion reduction, their drilling expenses, and the amount of taxes they paid in the period 1943-47. I remember one instance of a man who over a period of five years had a total net income of more than 14 million, but all he paid during that period was a tax of $80,000, or two-thirds of one per cent. Could you furnish for the record of these hearings comparable data for more recent years?"

I remember one instance of a man who over a period of five years had a total net income of more than 14 million, but all he paid during that period was a tax of $80,000, or two-thirds of one per cent. Could you furnish for the record of these hearings comparable data for more recent years?"

Stroud Union Okays Same Setup; Backs County Plan

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Union School Board last night unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the union to remain as it is presently organized and accepted the county board's plan to reorganize Monroe County into four school districts.

Earl Groner, superintendent of schools, said the county plan will have little effect on Stroud Union. "Where jointures face the problem of eliminating all their individual boards, we only have to remain as a single administrative unit to comply with the new plan," he said.

He told the board that on the information he now has about Act 229 (the new school reorganization law) all Stroud Union will have to do to comply is add two new school directors to its present number of seven.

He said the law calls for nine school directors in each reorganization district. Groner said union districts will cease to exist only in the respect that they will have to drop the word union from their official title.

He said the only way he sees Stroud Union effected by the new act, would be if the county's plan is not accepted in Harrisburg.

"If the educational qualifications are brought to the point that we can't financially carry them out, then the State Council of Basic Education could force its own plan on us," he said.

In a lively discussion on the merits of vocational education, Groner said, "The weakest part of this school system is its vocational training."

Robert Hellmann, a board member, questioned just how good a vocational school would be. "Why can't we use the facilities of the school for adult education during the evening," he said.

Doubts Any Value

Robert Harvey said he doubted if any vocational school would be of any value. "It's cheaper to go on unemployment than it is to work for a living. Why should all of us pay for this training. Let the parents pay," he said.

Alfred Munson, high school principal, in response to a question from Raymond Roberts, school director-elect, said, "The number of dropouts is from 10 to 15 per cent among boys who are in the industrial arts course."

The board also authorized the purchase of $150,000 of short-term United States Treasury bills. A $100,000 90-day bill and a $50,000 60-day bill will be bought.

It was disclosed that at a special meeting on Nov. 6, John Baymor, treasurer, was authorized to buy and sell $300,000 in treasury bills.

Baymor purchased a $50,000 bill at 3.43 per cent interest for 60 days, with a maturity date of Jan. 9, 1964, and a $250,000 bill at 3.51 per cent interest for 90 days, maturing on Feb. 6, 1964.

Baymor said the district is in a very favorable position as far as finances go. On Nov. 20, the general fund had a cash balance of $340,403.

Bills totaling $37,531.21 were approved for payment. Included were $27,821.61 from the general fund and $9,709.60 from the cafeteria.

Lucille Camarie, a child confined to the Children's Seashore House in Atlantic City, N. J., was approved for payment of homebound instruction of $12.50 per week.

A request from the Atlantic City School Board, operators of the school, for $150 per month for the Camarie child's schooling was turned down.

Groner explained that only five hours per week of homebound instruction at $2.50 per hour is authorized and reimbursable from the state.

Acting On Ok

Board solicitor Edward Williams said, "Unless there is something in the school code to give the board the discretion of going over the stated amount the board would be acting on its own and could be subject to surcharge by approving additional payments for homebound instruction."

A request for homebound instruction from Sylvia Grenaker, pending a doctor's approval that is expected tomorrow, was approved.

Charles V. Straub was placed on the substitute teachers list. He will teach physical education, general science and social studies.

Near the end of the meeting Harvey asked the board if reports he heard about football coach Jerry Stulgaitis being called before the board and told, "if you don't win football games you will be fired," were true.

The board said this never happened.

Hellman was authorized to secure specifications for making needed repairs to the playgrounds at Clearview and Hamilton Elementary schools. The need for the repairs was brought out in a report made by Hellmann, chairman of the building and grounds committee.

Wells Reappointed

William P. Wells was unanimously reappointed to a five-year term on the Stroudsburg Area School Authority.

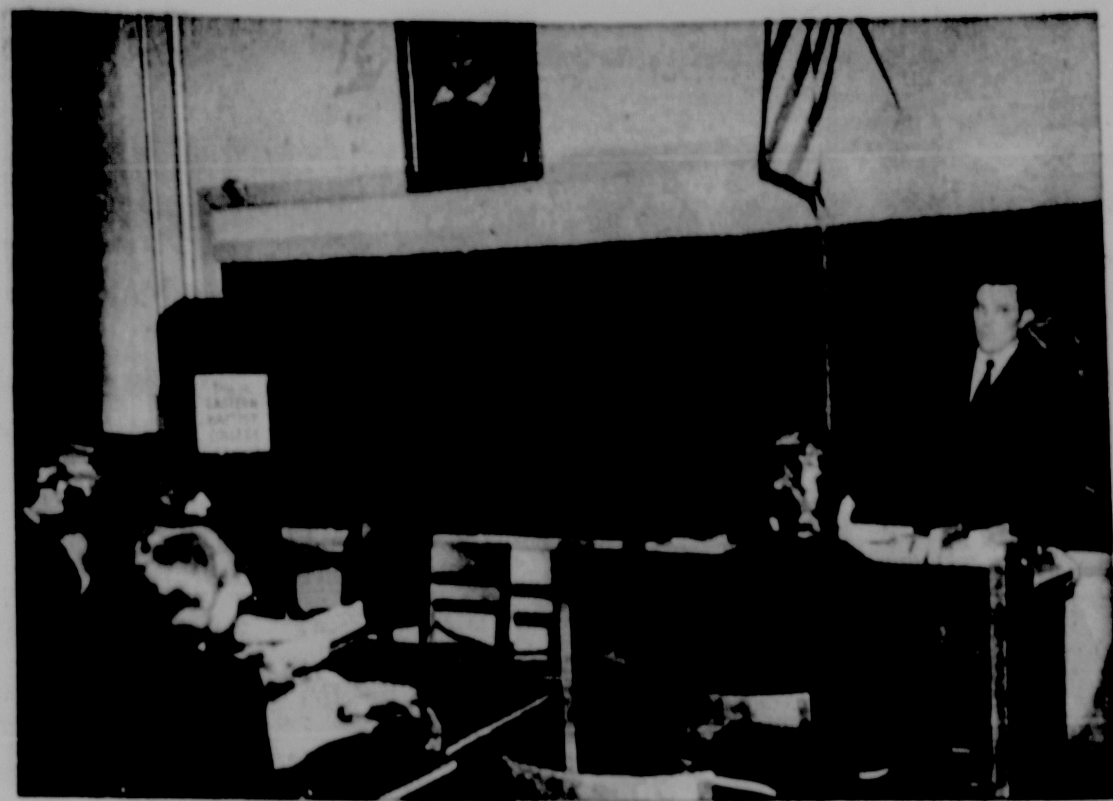

The audit of the district for fiscal 1963 was received. It was prepared by Herbert Crane, Stroudsburg CPA.

Groner said contracts for the district's building program will be let soon after Jan. 1, 1964.

County-Wide CD Test Set By Local Aides Nov. 25

STROUDSBURG—A county-wide Civil Defense test has been approved by state and county officials and will be held on Monday, Nov. 25, between 7 and 7:10 p. m. Marvin E. Abel, Monroe County CD director announced yesterday.

Abel said, "There will be no public participation in the test. I repeat, there will be no public participation in the test."

The alert signal will be sounded at 7 p. m. The signal will stop at 7:03 p. m. At 7:10 p. m. the all clear signal will sound.

The main difference between this test and the one held Sept. 16 is that in addition to sirens and sound bells located in churches and schools, industrial plants also will sound devices.

"The primary purpose of the test," Abel said, "is to test the overall effectiveness of all county warning devices which include fire sirens, church bells and industrial plants' sounding devices."

"It will also provide further opportunity for public warning education and stimulate public interest in the county CD program," he added.

"Better Coverage"

Abel concluded, "The test will also provide a public survey to determine better coverage and identification between fire and air raid warnings by including church bells and other sounding devices that would actually be sounded in the event of an actual air raid."

The Daily Record will publish a coupon on Monday. It will be in the form of a questionnaire.

Abel urges all Monroe County residents to be on the lookout for the coupon, to complete it, and mail it back to CD headquarters in the county courthouse.

Before the test starts the county control system will go into operation at 6:30 p. m. The control center is located in the CD office in Monroe County courthouse.

Key Personnel To Report

Activation of the county control center will require all key personnel to report. Officials slated to report are county commissioners, members of the county council, the county director, deputy of operations, the control center chief, deputy of administration and county divisional chief as well as personnel to handle operations of registrations, telephones and radios.

State News Roundup

Female Lawyers Get Setback

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that lady lawyers can't keep falling back on the alleged female prerogative of being a little late.

They have to be just as prompt as men in handling their cases.

Chief Justice John C. Bell Jr. directed Sara Duffy and her sister, Mary Alice Duffy, to be ready by next Jan. 13 (no later) to argue their appeal against the conviction and death sentence imposed on John J. Coyle for murdering a policeman in 1959.

The appeal first was scheduled to be argued last January, continued until April, and then rescheduled for Thursday.

Sara Duffy came before the high tribunal Wednesday and said the sisters didn't have briefs ready.

She gave these reasons: (1) An uncle died in Ireland and Mary Alice had to go and settle his affairs, (2) Mary Alice had an ear infection, and (3) their office mimeograph broke down, preventing printing of the briefs until Nov. 29.

Kis Lyn Probe Completed

HARRISBURG (AP)—An investigation into charges of mistreatment of inmates at the Kis Lyn School in Luzerne County for juvenile offenders has been completed, the Justice Department reported Wednesday.

However, a full report on the investigation is not expected to reach Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini for review until early next week, a spokesman said.

"We don't know what we have yet," the spokesman added. "We have to evaluate the information we obtained."

The Justice Department began its investigation Nov. 6 following charges that attendants were mistreating juveniles committed to the institution.

Kis Lyn is operated by Luzerne County under the supervision of the State Public Welfare Department.

Originally, it was intended to house only juveniles from the county, but over the years has accepted youngsters from other counties.

Urges Natural Integration

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — A white dentist who said he was "strongly against integration unless it is natural integration," has resigned as chairman of the Chester Human Relations Council. Two Negro members of the council also quit.

Dr. Nathan V. Pfafker, who also serves five years on the Advisory Committee of the Pennsylvania Human Relations Council, said "Negroes are demanding preferential treatment which they are trying to obtain by vandalism, rioting and destruction."

Dr. Pfafker was particularly critical last week after over 200 Negroes were arrested following a violent demonstration at a Chester school.

Dr. Felder E. Rouse Jr., a physician, and Stanley Branche, former executive secretary of the Chester Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also submitted resignations Tuesday night.

Keystone Shares In Navy Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania and New York will share an $8,580,000 Navy contract to the Foster Wheeler Corp. for production of 10 steam generator systems and engineering services.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., in announcing this Wednesday, said $3.9 million of the work will be performed at the company's Jeannette, Pa., plant, $2.4 million at its Mountaintop, Pa., plant, and $2.2 million at Dansville, N. Y.

Concert At ESSC Tonight

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Community Concert Assn. will present Ivan Davis, pianist, in a concert at the auditorium of East Stroudsburg State College at 8 p.m. today.

The program will open with the Sonata in B Flat, K. 570 by Mozart, Beethoven's Sonata in E Flat Major, Op. 31, No. 3 and Fete Dieu a Seville and Triana, from "Iberia" by Isaac Albeniz.

Following the intermission, Davis will present six studies by Frederic Chopin and Mephisto Waltz (Dance in the Village Inn — Scene from Lenau's Faust) by Franz Liszt.

Born in Texas, Davis has rolled up a record of prize-winning performances and glowing reviews.

Won High Honors

In April, 1960, he took top honors in the first Franz Liszt piano competition in New York where he was the unanimous choice of a jury headed by the late Dimitri Mitropoulos. Davis had made his New York debut in Town Hall in October, 1959, and after winning the Liszt prize he gave a second Town Hall recital and appeared with New York's Little Orchestra Society.

In 1955, he took first place in the Young Artists Competition of Music Clubs from North Texas University. He went to Europe as a Fulbright scholar, studying under Carlo Zecchi at Rome's Santa Cecilia Academy, and came away as American prize-winner at the Busoni Competition at Vercelli, in the Casella Competition in Naples and in Lisbon.

People In The Spotlight

Another George S. Patton is rising to prominence in the Army. Lt. Col. Patton, son of the "Blood and Guts" tank general of World War II, has been chosen to attend the Army War College starting next August.

The Army selects only its most promising officers for its war college at Carlisle Barracks.

Gen. George S. Patton Jr. was considered by many the most colorful Army figure of World War II. His career ended when he was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Mannheim, Germany, about eight months after the war ended in Europe.

Like his father, Lt. Col. Patton, 39, is a tanker, now in command of an armored battalion at Fort Hood, Tex.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, veteran British war leader, demanded Tuesday night that Britain cut back its troops in Germany and switch them east of Suez.

"The center of turbulence in the cold war has shifted to east of Suez. Germany is no longer the danger spot," declared the 76-year-old victor of Alamein in a House of Lords defense debate.

Montgomery's declaration came only two days after former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, a wartime comrade, said the United States should gradually pull five of its six combat divisions out of Western Europe. Monty served as Eisenhower's deputy during World War II and was later deputy supreme commander of NATO.

President Kennedy has predicted that before Congress goes home next summer "it will have done more in the field of education than any Congress in the last 100 years."

He said some might think he was optimistic but he thought Congress' record in this field would be the best since the establishment of the land grant colleges.

The President made his prediction before a group from the National Assn. of Secretaries of State Teachers Assns. in the White House garden.

Budget Director Kermit Gordon said the new budget to be presented to Congress in January will show a smaller increase over the preceding year than has been the case recently.

He gave this assurance to the Senate Finance Committee after Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., pointed out that the annual increases have been averaging $5 billion in the Kennedy administration.

Gordon declined to give an estimate for the fiscal 1965 budget total due in two months.

James J. Cheswick, 54-year-old

The Daily Record, The Stroudsburgs, Pa. — Thurs., Nov. 21, 1963

San Francisco accountant, was shot and killed Tuesday when he succeeded in snaring with his umbrella a robber who was escaping with $5,000 in church funds.

The robber commandeered a passing cab and got away. He had seized the money, in Cheswick's attaché case, and ran across a street with Cheswick in pursuit. Cheswick snatched the robber's arm with the umbrella handle and was shot as they

Chevy II Nova 4-Door Sedan

Now—'64 Chevy II...

with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

That's right. A full-grown 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8.* It's available for the first time this year along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6.* (And all of them, happily, maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

You can take this V8 through the gears most any way you choose—with personal encouragement from a finely honed 4-speed shift* if you like.

But the changes that have come over this new Chevy II aren't by any means confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat.

There are new styling features like the tasteful grille design and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming about as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.

THEY'RE BUDDIES—Lewis Davis, David Serfoss, Willard Henning and Donald Dotter take oath of enlistment as they join Co. C, First Bn., 109th Infantry, East Stroudsburg, under National Guard's new "Buddy System." They'll serve their six months on active duty with the same training unit.

IMC Will Award Scholarships

STROUDSBURG — The outstanding senior student in each of the Monroe County's four high schools who intend to take advanced technical training will be awarded a scholarship by the Industrial Management Club of Monroe County.

The club in cooperation with the county's business and industry and the four high schools will also sponsor an industrial arts exhibit in the spring.

The scholarships are designed to promote interest in the educational training of high school undergraduates in technical fields as a means of preparing students qualified for skilled occupations within the county, according to Richard Selp, chairman of the club's community activities committee.

To Further Development
"We sincerely believe our program will assist in furthering the development of technical education within our county and to recognize the achievement of the students enrolled in these programs," said Selp.

"We also believe the industries, business and commercial firms of Monroe County will want to support such a program for our deserving young people. We are therefore, seeking this support, through a financial contribution, to use in addition to contributions by our membership," he added.

There will be a meeting in the near future for the builders interested in the "Spring Parade of Homes."

Carl Rohner and George Oliver were introduced as prospective members to the organization.

Spencer Cramer, of the R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., East Stroudsburg, was in charge of this week's program. He introduced personnel from the C. M. Athey Paint Company of Baltimore, Md.

New products were reviewed — of particular interest was the new fire retardant paint. This was followed by a film "The Menace of Moisture."

Erhard To Visit British Leaders

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard will visit London Jan. 15-16 to meet with British leaders, the government said Tuesday.

7 Enlist, Rejoin Co. 'C' Guard

EAST STROUDSBURG — Seven men enlisted or reenlisted in Co. C, First Bn., 109th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, this week.

Enlisting under the newly-initiated "Buddy System" were Lewis Davis, David Serfoss, Willard Henning and Donald Dotter. They will enter active duty for six months and will be attached to the same training unit during that period.

The reenlistees were S-Sgt. Ernest A. Michaels, SP 5 Earl H. Miller and Pvt. Albert Hartman.

Resides in Bushkill
Sgt. Michaels resides with his wife and three children in Bushkill. He previously had four years of service in the regular Army, three years in the Air Force and three and one-half years in the National Guard. His present assignment will be as a squad leader in the second platoon.

Miller, of East Stroudsburg, served two years in the regular Army before enlisting as leader of Co. C's ground surveillance section.

Hartman, also of East Stroudsburg, will begin regular Army service when he leaves for six months of active duty training. He will then return to the company to complete his service obligation.

Coal Miners Stage Walkout

TOKYO (AP) — About 75,000 coal miners staged a walkout Tuesday demanding the government make improved security measures for coal mines.

The Japan Coal Miners' Union said the talkout was ordered to prevent recurrence of the Nov. 9 disastrous explosion at Miike coal mine that killed more than 450 miners in Kyushu Island, Japan's southern main island.

The film will show an actual cancer of the lung, and will be of particular interest to adults and older youth.

This is another in a series of educational films made available by the American Temperance Society.

There is no admission fee. All are welcome.

Hours will be 7:30 to 9 p. m. Friday and 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday. It is open to students in the county schools and other county collectors.

The junior division will include grades up to and including Grade Eight; the intermediate division will be for Grades Nine to 12 and the senior division will be for out-of-school children and adults.

All stamps entered must be the property of the exhibitor. Prizes will be awarded the first four winners in the junior and intermediate divisions and certificates will be awarded in the senior division. Exhibitors in the junior and intermediate divisions who do not win prizes will receive a packet of 100 different foreign stamps.

The name, grade and school is to be listed on the back of the entry, with no indication of ownership on the front of the entry. Exhibitors must bring their entries to the Newberry store between 4 and 5:30 p. m. on Friday, Jan. 24.

Not more than three exhibits are permitted from any one person. One of three frames may be entered as one or three different exhibits. Only one prize will be awarded any individual regardless of the number of entries.

Exhibits must be on cardboard or in picture frames, 18 by 24 inches. The committee will not be responsible for loss or damage to stamps exhibited.

Philatelic Judges

Judges will be members of the Monroe Philatelic Society. Judging will be on a basis of one to 25 points for completeness of exhibit, one to 20 points for originality of design and arrangement, one to 15 points for neatness of display and one to 10 points for condition of material.

The exhibit in each division receiving the highest total points will receive first prize.

The committee includes John Possinger, chairman; Jack Sweeney, Mary Metzgar, John Montgomery, James Hantjix, Ruth Renfer and Ray Patton.

Budget Setback Sidetracks Romney's Political Future

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George W. Romney's fiscal reform program for Michigan went down in the state legislature last week—and his political future may have gone down with it.

Romney has frequently been mentioned as a potential candidate for the 1964 Republican Presidential nomination, despite his denial of any such ambition.

But most observers believe the defeat of the governor's tax proposals by the GOP-controlled legislature is certain to have a damaging effect on Romney's national reputation and political prestige.

Whether the setback eventually means Romney will quit politics and return to his former job as president of American Motors remains to be seen.

The governor's closest confidant says he is a dedicated man who will lick his political wounds, consider the defeat a personal challenge and run for election to a second term just to finish a job he feels needs to be done.

There are indications, however, that Romney has found the field of politics not entirely to his liking.

At a Republican conference on Mackinac Island this fall, the governor said he had learned in his comparatively brief career in office that being the state's chief executive sometimes brought unreasonable demands on his time.

"Ain't Any Fun"

"It ain't any fun," he observed.

Romney learned more facts of political life during the closed-door maneuverings in which he tried to round up a maximum amount of Republican support for his tax program.

Implied threats not to run for re-election got him nowhere.

As Michigan's first Republican governor in 14 years, Romney's threatened ultimatum might be expected to carry some weight.

But the attitude of most of the Republican members of the legislature who held out against fiscal reform was that they don't need Romney's support to get elected.

Many GOP leaders are hopeful that the loss of Romney's fiscal reform program will be offset by the gains scored last spring in the regular session of the legislature, rated as one of the most productive in years.

U.S. Prepares To End Aid Program To Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Americans prepared Wednesday night to dismantle their aid machinery, fearful that Cambodia's refusal to accept further U.S. assistance will swing the nation into Red China's powerful orbit.

U.S. Ambassador Philip D. Sprouse was summoned to the Foreign Ministry, presumably to get the word that U.S. food and dollars no longer are welcome. He has not seen Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, for several months.

In Washington, the State Department reported Cambodia sent a note asking negotiations to end U.S. aid. Sihanouk was said to have expressed his thanks for U.S. aid and reaffirmed his friendship.

Work on all U.S. aid projects halted Tuesday after Sihanouk told a cheering rally that as of now no more American aid would be accepted.

Washington Denials

Despite repeated Washington denials, he again charged that U.S. aid was being used to undermine his government.

The United States has been pouring $30 million a year in military and economic aid into this little Asian nation to try to keep it neutral in struggle to save Southeast Asia from a Communist takeover.

From Red China came enthusiastic approval of Sihanouk's decision. Foreign Minister Chen Yi told a meeting in Peking that Red China will give "resolute support to the Cambodian people in their just and patriotic struggle against imperialism and for the defense of their sovereignty."

Small In Comparison

Red China and the Soviet Union had been sending aid to Cambodia but it is small compared with the American effort.

Thailand, a neighbor on the north which has its own quarrel with Cambodia over border issues, accused Sihanouk of "selling his country to Communist China."

Sihanouk will ask the three million Cambodians to tighten their belts, will nationalize a number of businesses Dec. 31 and has announced the government will take over banks next July.

U.S. officials said aid programs, mostly agricultural and educational projects, will be closed out as soon as possible.

Middle Atlantic States—Temperatures will average near normal. Warm Thursday and Friday followed by cooler over the weekend through Monday. Showers Friday night and Saturday will total one quarter to one-half inch.

Labor Criticizes JFK On Rights

NEW YORK (AP)—An AFL-CIO spokesman said yesterday that President Kennedy is not moving fast enough on civil rights.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the only Negro vice president of the AFL-CIO, said his aim in leading a special order of business at the big labor organization's convention Monday will be to "mobilize public sentiment."

Randolph has introduced resolutions before the convention of the 135-million-member organization to ban discrimination within and without the labor movement.

Buck Receives Scout Award For Pocono District Aid

STROUDSBURG — Edwin F. Buck of 83 Bridge St., Stroudsburg, Tuesday was named this year's recipient of the Pocono District statuette for service to boys in the Boy Scout movement.

The award was presented by Charles H. Whitlow, president of the Delaware Valley Area Council, at the district's annual dinner meeting Tuesday in the tea room of Wyckoff's Dept. Store.

Buck has served Scouting in various capacities since 1950.

He served on Cub Pack, Boy Scout troop and Explorer post committees prior to joining the district committee in 1954.

He first served on the leadership training committee and later the advancement committee, of which he has been chairman for seven years.

In addition to his work in Scouting, Buck is a member of the council of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, and is currently heading the expansion program of the church.

Bi-Partisan Welfare Services Study Shows

$8,564 Less Yearly For Monroe

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Local administration of all public welfare services in Pennsylvania through County Departments of Public Welfare as recommended to Governor Scranton and the Legislature by a bi-partisan study commission would cost Monroe County $8,564 less a year at the existing service level.

During 1961, according to the report, when Monroe County spent more than the one mill per estimated market value of taxable real estate (as recommended by the Commission) $160,467 in county funds was expended for public welfare.

Under the plan proposed by the Commission however, this amount would have been decreased to $151,903 a year, or a dip of $8,564 to equal the one mill tax yield. The county in 1961 spent about 1.03 mills.

Total public welfare expenditures in Monroe County in 1961 that would have been affected by the plan were listed by the Commission as $210,617, with $30,150 paid by the state. Under the plan at the one mill contribution level, the state would have contributed $127,706 and the county $151,903 — for a $279,609 program for Monroe County.

Exclusive Of Grants
The program would be exclusive of public assistance grants to persons on relief, which would be continued to be paid by the state with state-federal money. For the Fiscal year ending June 30, 1963, these grants totaled $432,285 in Monroe County (which incidentally has a dependency ratio of 1.8 per cent of population).

The "cost" figure in the Commission's plan included public assistance administration, vocational rehabilitation grants to the blind, and grants for sheltered workshops, plus county responsibility costs for child welfare, institutional operation and programs for the aging.

The single-agency concept would make public welfare services available for all who need them, avoid duplication of services, and eliminate the necessity of people in need "shopping" for the proper help, the Commission said.

Responsibility Limited
At the present time county responsibility in the field of public welfare is limited to child welfare, institutional care for the aged and care of a few needy persons who do not qualify for state public assistance.

A program of additional public welfare services, including such things as rehabilitation activities, day care centers and counseling services, would run the Monroe County operation up to $349,738 a year, exclusive of public assistance grants, with the county's share under this plan at $151,903, and the state paying $197,835 in state-federal funds.

The next meeting will be in the form of a Christmas party which will be held in the church rooms Dec. 12.

"I started wishing I were back home, not with my husband — he was not too pleased with me — but back in Devon with Ernestine, my dear pig, who loved me whatever I did." Ernestine had started out as her British War Effort when she was 16, became the scourge of the villages of Hackham, Dackham and Coffinswell and ended up a comfortable friend to think back on.

When her book on Ernestine was done, she received the top accolade. Her husband liked it.

"I wanted to write on love, but I was a failure," she says sadly. "It was to be a book called 'Hussies in History.'"

After the hurricane book, she spent the summer of 1962 in Alaska, searching for the migrating whistling swans she'd got to know along the East Coast in winter. She became known as "that swan's nest woman."

"I visited lot of people I had been told knew all about them. So they'd look indignant and say 'I'm a trumpeter, you know, not a whistler.' One offered, 'Well, you know, we've got a lovely man on bears.'"

Her husband wired, with perhaps no humor intended: "It's a wild goose chase. Come home."

Hunting swans on the frozen tundra, she was cold and homesick.

"I met my husband at the English Speaking Union and immediately told him how superior the British Navy was. He spent years telling me how superior the U.S. Navy was. When I was doing the book

Stroud Club Told 21 Club Is Good Influence On Youth

Stroudsburg — Members of the Stroud Community Women's Club were impressed by the facilities provided for area youth at "21 Club" when they held a meeting at the teen "night club" recently.

Walter Meinikoff, owner - operator of the club, was guest speaker. He told the members of traveling through the West and South where such clubs as this have been established.

"These clubs maintain in every practical way a positive influence on the standard of values of youth activities," Meinikoff said.

"My concern," he continued, "is for the youth of our area; today's students are tomorrow's adult citizens."

"These reasons," he told the women, "form the background for purchasing and making this building a club strictly for teenagers."

Meinikoff pointed out that no liquor is sold on the premises and that the snack bar caters to the "pre-adolescent" diet. He said the entertainment the club offers is planned to give teens and their dates a high-quality place to go.

"The club is open Friday and Saturday nights," he said, "with dancing to records or a band. The admission is $1 on nights with live entertainment, and half that when there is dancing to records."

He told the women that a young married couple is present at the club, in addition to his being on the premises himself.

During the business session, Mrs. William Morgan, president, gave a brief report on the county meeting. It was also reported that work had begun on various community achievement teams.

The next club meeting will be held at the Stroud Community House, Dec. 12. Madelyn Maloney will display her Madonna collection. New members will also be installed.

The board meeting will be held Dec. 5 in the YMCA instead of Nov. 28, members were told.

Refreshments were served by Hilda Brown and Freda Coco and committee members, Marjorie Ace, Doris Barry, Marie Bean, Jerry Brinker, Mary Burnett, Ellin Burrus and Emma Haney.

Mrs. James Gilpin presided during the brief business session. Refreshments were served by Doris Bartleson, Elsie Hettes and Edith Robacker.

Her 95th Birthday Won't Slow Down Her Activity

EAST STROUBSBERG — Mrs. Mary Rhodes of West Broad Street, East Stroudsburg will celebrate her 95th birthday Friday.

"Aunt Mary," as she is affectionately known, is the oldest active member of the Seventh-day Adventist church, and is rarely absent from Bible class and church service each week.

Born at Sciota, the daughter of the late Amundus and Sarah Jane Rinker, Mrs. Rhodes remembers moving to Stroudsburg and taking up residence on Sarah St., between eight and ninth Sts. She recalls after her marriage to Lewis Rhodes, moving next to Judge Metzgar on Bryant Street, Stroudsburg.

When questioned about her health habits, she said, "I took a cold tub bath every morning until I was 80 and then stopped, at my doctors suggestion. I never overeat and enjoy fresh fruits and raw vegetable salads."

She says she wants to remain active and does a few chores such as helping with the dishes and making the beds.

Although Aunt Mary's sight is too weak to read much, she says her hearing is perfect, and she enjoys chatting with friends and neighbors when they drop in to visit.

TRY SOME TODAY OVER MACARONI, MEAT, FISH

AS ITALIAN AS NAPLES ITSELF

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

"All a-board!" is a call that has different connotations for different people. To a traveler, it may mean that the train is about to leave. To a housewife, it might mean that every household needs cutting boards, lots of them, particularly in the kitchen.

We have a variety of boards at Wyckoff's, and I can't imagine any gift that would be more sincerely welcomed by many homemakers. Some of these boards are gaily decorated in the manner of the Scandinavian country from which they are exported. Some are plain hard wood, rubbed to a satin finish. A few are small and square, with handle, and are centered by a tile upon which the well known Kitchen Prayer appears. Some of our cutting boards are sold in sets of three. There are small boards for use in chopping vegetables; larger ones for bread; still larger for meats. These have cork backing to protect the surface upon which one is using them, and also to ensure against skidding.

If the boards in our International Gift Center do not fill the bill insofar as you are concerned, travel a bit further—into Mary Hitesman's Housewares Department or to our downstairs Sears store. When it comes to feeding her star boarders, nothing is handier for Mom than one of these inexpensive accessories. Some might even come in handy as a paddle, if the size and the design were right. Yes indeed, EVERY home should own one!

A few paragraphs above, I mentioned The Kitchen Prayer. We see this reproduced in various ways, but have I mentioned that our Gift Center stocks pretty planters in the form of a girl wearing a white apron over a long pink dress? The apron is lettered with the prayer. Only 1.00, these would fit neatly into a stocking at Christmas, or would be a cute choice for the dollar gift one puts in Santa's bag at a club party. . . . But we were talking primarily of wood, weren't we?—and few subjects are more fascinating. I love wood with natural finish, rubbed so that the grain is highlighted. No wood is more attractive, it seems to me, than butternut, and you'll find it in big bowls here at Wyckoff's, priced somewhere around 6.50. Oh, we have other dandy bowls too—of monkey pod, honey maple, and other woods. But the butternut grain is indescribably lovely, and such a bowl would be great for serving any kind of snack from fruit to potato chips, or for tossing a salad.

Business and the world of entertainment are joining hands in a number of promotions soon to be launched upon an unsuspecting public. For instance: with the showing of the Audrey Hepburn movie, "My Fair Lady," we may expect to find all types of merchandise from cosmetics to domestics, bearing the same name. Right now, "Under the Yum Yum Tree" (the Jack Lemmon comedy) is influencing us to the extent we have Yum Yum Tree sheets and pillowcases in our Domestic Department. The undersheets are printed with flowers, here, there and everywhere; the fitted top sheet is also printed and has a wide border that looks very lovely folded back, so it peeks from under the print pillow cases. As nearly as I can describe them, they are Pennsylvania Dutch, with stylized tulips looming large in the design. So attractive and new are these sets, I'm sure there'll be a veritable forest of Yum Yum trees under the lighted Christmas trees of our nation.

County Women Keep Secret From Bobby Westbrook

Stroudsburg — An early Christmas party surprised Bobby Westbrook, Family Fare editor of The Daily Record, last night as more than 70 members of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs gathered in the darkened rooms of the Stroud Community House.

The shower was planned to aid Bobby in replacing items lost in the fire which reduced her home to rubble last week.

Although trusting one woman to keep a secret may be risky, Mrs. Robert Payne, president of the federation, and Mrs. Robert Hoffman, ways and means chairman, trusted nearly 450. They had contacted the members of the county clubs to tell them of the surprise shower.

A last minute change in Bobby's plans nearly upset all the women who belong to the county organization. The first date set for the affair had to be changed.

Through a ruse by Mrs. Grant Nitrauer and Mrs. David Mazer, Bobby entered the darkened room and was greeted by more than 70 women with cries of "Surprise." It became obvious the party was, from the expression on her face, as the lights went on.

Gifts from each of the women's clubs and personal friends were piled high and wide under a white artificial Christmas Tree which Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Payne decorated.

The gifts included houseware and personal items, all of which were serving a double purpose. They replaced items lost in the fire which demolished Bobby's home last week, and gave organizations and friends a chance to thank Bobby for her interest, aid and efforts in past years.

"How'd you ever do this?" she asked at one point, and, running out of descriptive adjectives, greeted each new gift with, "Isn't it lovely?"

Comments on "It's just my size," referred to her own diminutive size, and brought laughter from the women. Her mother, Dr. Nina Price, officiated with sissors to open successive packages as they were presented.

Clubs represented included the Barrett Community Club, Progressive Woman's Club, Saylor's Club, Stroud Community Club, Women's Club of the Stroudsburgs, Stroudsburg Junior Women's Club, and Barrett Junior Women's Club.

For the buffet which followed, a centerpiece of orange and white pom-pom chrysanthemums with wheat and leaves was placed in an ironstone bowl with a raised design. It was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Taylor. Flanking the floral gift were pistachio candles in brass holders.

Mrs. LeRoy Koehler and Mrs. Paul Edinger, Jr., poured tea and coffee from silver service. A second table was graced with an artificial arrangement of yellow carnations, grapes, ivy and Scotch broom, provided by Mrs. Payne.

Bobby pronounced a benediction over the group with her own, "Bless your hearts."

TANGY TWOSOME—Fresh cranberries and apples, paired in pie.

Early American Taste In Two-Fruit Pie

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Sloughing through early American cook books, we've come on a two-fruit combination — cranberries and apples — that's still relished by knowing cooks.

An excellent way to team the fruits is in a sauce; another interesting way is to bake them in a pie. Sometimes modern cooks use a larger amount of apple than cranberries, sometimes it's just the other way around. This pie takes the latter way.

Eaters who like a tangy pie will enjoy this one ungarlished; for diners with a sweet tooth, add a topping of well sweetened whipped cream.

More Cranberry Than Apple Pie

Flaky pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie

1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick-cook-

1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups fresh cranberries
1 1/2 cups diced pared apple
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Roll out half of pastry about 1/4-inch thick; line a 9-inch pie plate with it. Roll out other half of pastry about 1/4-inch thick for top and cut vents in it.

Tips On Growing Roses

By George Abraham

Most roses have been put to bed for the winter and there's little you can do now for next year's show. About the only thing left to do is cut the canes back on hybrid teas, grandifloras and floribundas, if you haven't done so.

This makes the bed sharper looking when all the canes are cut back to 18 to 24 inches. It prevents wind whipping, breakage in heavy snow and loosening of the soil mound.

A layer of evergreen boughs or straw, on top of the mounds will give extra insulation, but may also attract mice.

Avoid materials that pack and retain moisture (this includes leaves).

Climbers are usually hardy enough to go through the winter without any protection. Some gardeners tip the long canes from their supports and place them on the ground where they are covered with straw or soil.

We don't do this to our climbers but we do cut the long canes back about one-third so they won't whip against the side of the house.

FREE: Want a good booklet to read during the winter months? I have free copies of the revised "Handbook for Rose Growing," prepared by the All-America Rose Selections. This booklet has information on uses of roses for landscape beauty, trimming, spraying, feeding, winter protection, and other points on growing prize roses. Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope (9" x 4") for your copy. It'll make an excellent addition to your Green Thumb library.

WINTERING PLANTS: Recently we mentioned various types of winter injury to plants. These included bitter cold, drying of foliage, causing roots to die.

A mulch of sawdust, peat, oak leaves, buckwheat hulls, cocoon shells, etc., reduces this type of root injury. Hot sun in winter is another killer. It draws water from the tissues.

Burlap screens and plastic sprays help reduce sun damage. Also, keeping the soil well soaked before plants go into the winter. Excessive winds literally blow moisture from tissues and are classed as another type of winter injury.

Windbreaks, mulches and use of an anti-desiccant spray, plus watering soil in late fall, will prevent winter injury.

Soil heaving, as a result of freezing and thawing, breaks small roots, causing plants to topple or rise out of the soil. A mulch is the best way to minimize this type of damage. Next week: How to prevent animals from injuring your plants in winter.

EASTER LILIES: Surprised to find that your Easter Lily bloomed for you outdoors this fall? They do that, and will bloom each year. Just leave them in a permanent spot in the garden, without any protection. They're tough and will flower year after year. Dig and divide the bulbs every three or four years. That's all the care!

FOR THE BIRDS: One of our readers told how she pours bacon and other grease in cardboard milk containers, then presses bird seed in this and hangs the whole snack bar in a tree.

Several readers have asked us how birds can get to this supply of food. We forgot to mention that you can cut slits or round holes in the sides of cartons to help the birds get at the food more easily.

ASPARAGUS FERNS: These are still among the best foliage plants we have.

We have two types of asparagus: A plumosus, the fine leaved kind used by florists, and B sprengeri, a drooping, viney plant with needle-like, yellow-green leaves.

Neither is a fern, but a member of the lily family. They produce red berries which can be soaked for a day in warm water, then started in pots of loose soil.

Indoors, both ferns like a sunny window in winter and partial shade in the summer. Keep the soil moist at all times.

Yellow leaves can be due to poor drainage, overwatering, soil insects or lack of nitrogen plant food. Feed yours a liquid plant food every two or three months, report if soil is full of white roots.

If you see tiny white worms in the soil, dust a bit of DDT in the soil and this will kill them.

When asparagus ferns are victims of old age, they become scraggly. It's best to start new plants from divisions, or from seeds or by cuttings. Seedling plants are bushy and are easy to get started from seed sown in pots of soil.

CANNED APPLES: Here's another recipe sent us: "Start with late fall or winter varieties, as they are more tart and keep flavor better than sweeter types. Wash, pare and core; cut into quarters or slices and drop into a salt bath made of one pound of salt to one quart of water, to prevent discoloring.

"Rinse to remove salt, boil for one minute in syrup made with one part sugar to one part water, to shrink. Pack hot into canning jars, either ball or screw top. Fill with hot syrup, partly seal and process in a canner for 15 minutes. Remove from canner and seal.

"For open kettle method, drop sliced apples into kettle of boiling syrup, add the grated rind of one lemon for each two quarts of apples. Boil until apples are tender, pack into hot jars, fill to overflowing with boiling syrup and seal."

Green Thumb note: We've received nearly 100 letters from readers who use aspirin in the canning process. One reader sent us a bulletin from the U. S. D. A. which states: "Aspirin should not be used as a substitute for heat treatments in canning fruits and vegetables; it cannot be relied on to prevent spoilage or to give satisfactory products. Adequate heat treatment is the only safe procedure."

Next week: Watch for more recipes.

STARTING PINEAPPLES: Did you know you can start a pineapple plant by cutting the top off (leaving a little flesh attached) and rooting it in a pot of soil? Rooting takes place in about two to three months.

Make sure you do not over-water the cutting as it may rot before it roots. After rooting, pot it in a six inch pot, grow in a sunny window.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: R. F. of Tafton: "Our daughter who is in the 6th grade asked me to make a terrarium. We made one from plants dug in the woods, and the container was a brandy snifter. Within a week after it was made the plants all turned brown and died. What did we do that was wrong?"

Chances are you overwatered it. Or possibly you used the wrong types of plants. Here's how we make a terrarium, using a brandy snifter or gold fish bowl.

First, obtain some moss from an old stump and line one-half of the brandy glass with it, green side facing out. Then add soil made up of one-half sand and one-half peat. A few stones or gravel, plus a mirror (to simulate a lake) are added for effect.

Then you can start adding your miniature plants, odd bits of bark, lichens, sticks, or whatever you might find in the woods or fields. Small evergreen seedlings can be dug up with roots and planted in the soil. Next spring these can be planted outdoors.

Your trouble undoubtedly stemmed from overwatering. Water the new planting lightly and place the bottle garden in a bright window. You can place a piece of glass over the top, which means less watering.

With a glass covering, be sure to leave it partly off for ventilation; otherwise moisture will collect on the inside and visibility will be to a minimum.

Learning how to water the terrarium is the greatest difficulty experienced by home owners who go in for gardening in a glass.

D. G. of Wilson: "We stuck a willow branch in water and it has rooted with lots of leaves on the stem. What should be done with it during the winter?"

I'd plant it in the place you want it outdoors. The willow is perfectly hardy and will tolerate winter conditions. You might support it by tying a stake to the whip, and as further protection against mice or other rodents, a screen around it would be better.

G. L. of Filbert: "I tried that

Leclerc Player Of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Trying to single out one man as the Associated Press' Player of the week in the National Football League was a most difficult problem. He almost had to come from the game of the day, Green Bay vs. Chicago.

On the basis of four field goals and a recovery of Herb Adderley's fumble that led to Gallimore's 27-yard touchdown run, the honors went to Roger Leclerc, the Bears' place kicker and substitute linebacker.

Leclerc put the Bears on the scoreboard with a 29-yard kick in the first period. He made it 6-0 with a 46-yard field goal. When Adderley fumbled the kickoff, it was Leclerc recovering the ball on the Packers' 36. Gallimore soon romped home on a 27-yard run.

In the third period, Leclerc stretched the lead to 16-0 with a 19-yard field goal and his 35-yarder in the fourth made it 19-0. The Bears eventually won 26-7 and took a full game lead over the Packers in their battle for the Western Title.

This was quite a performance for the 27-year-old kicker from Trinity College of Connecticut. In 1961 he tied the NFL record in one game with five field goals in five attempts. In the same year his failure to make a short one cost the Bears an important game with Philadelphia. Last year he made only 13 out of 27.

When rookie Bob Jencks of Miami of Ohio came along this year, Halas gave him the field goal job. He made his first, against Green Bay in an opening day 10-3 victory, and missed the next nine. Halas turned to Leclerc, who now has made 10 of 18, including four big ones against the Packers. Jencks still kicks the conversions.

Sherm Lewis Week's Best College Back

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — They call him "Squirmy Sherman" and "The Mighty Mite" and "The Sherman Tank" at Michigan State.

The little fellow is the main reason MSU is fighting for the Big Ten football title and a Rose Bowl berth against Illinois Saturday.

Sherman Lewis, co-captain of the Spartans, weighs only 152 pounds starting a game and will sweat down to 147 before play is over.

"Pound for pound, he's the best back I've ever seen in action," says Coach Duffy Daugherty. "He can break any game wide open and he's equally good on defense."

Lewis ran away with AP Back of the Week honors when he scored both touchdowns in the 12-7 victory against Notre Dame this past weekend.

The Irish were throwing a nine-man line against the running game and double-teaming Lewis. Then, in the final period, Lewis sprinted 85 yards for a game-deciding touchdown. It was the fifth time this season the Big Ten track star has scored on runs of 80 yards plus.

Lewis leads the MSU backs in scoring, kickoff returns, punt returns and even is ahead of the ends in pass receiving. He is second in rushing, with 519 yards, to burly Roger Lopez, the 210-pound fullback from Hawaii, who has 568 yards.

Detroit Signs Cassady

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions of the National Football League announced Wednesday they have signed Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy to plug up their injury-riddled defense.

Cassady, an All-American halfback at Ohio State, played seven seasons on offense in the NFL before he was released this year by the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Lions said Cassidy signed as a free agent and would be used in their defensive backfield. The club's secondary has been hamstrung by injuries to Yale Lary, Gary Lowe, Night Train Lane and Dick Compton.

The 29-year-old old Cassidy broke in with the Lions in 1956. He was traded last year and saw action with the Cleveland Browns and the Eagles.

Cassady suffered a broken leg late last season and was released by the Eagles after this year's exhibition campaign ended.

Both Teams Stress Defense

PV Bears, PM Cardinals Gird For 'Bucket' Battle

PLEASANT VALLEY — Defensive drills are the order of the day for both the Bears of Pleasant Valley and the Cardinals of Pocono Mountain. The two teams meet here Saturday afternoon in the pre-Thanksgiving Day battle for the Old Oaken Bucket.

The youngest arch-rivalry in the Pocono-State Belt area, this will be the third meeting between these schools. Both have won one apiece with Pleasant Valley taking the first contest, 20-8, and Pocono Mountain winning last season, 12-0.

It also will be the first meeting of these schools in full-time varsity competition. Pleasant Valley and Pocono Mountain both moved up from the JV ranks this season and both teams have won two games.

Pleasant Valley coach Wayne Hulsizer and Pocono Mountain coach Wayne Boyd have been hard at work this week putting their players through stiff scrimmage sessions. Both also have one big thought in mind: defense.

Says Hulsizer: "We're stressing defense. We feel our offense can work if we block. But we'll have to stop Mikels (Pocono Mountain halfback Mark Mikels). We're working on our offense, too, but the emphasis is on defense."

Says Boyd: "We're working pretty hard on our defense to stop the speedy Pleasant Valley halfbacks (Dale and Delbert Kibler, and John Kresge) and also their hard-charging fullback, Lou Herfurth." He adds, "We're also trying to improve our blocking for our offensive movements."

Both Optimistic
Both coaches also face this final game of the season optimistically.

"We have the Old Oaken Bucket," Boyd declared yesterday, "and we're fighting hard to keep it here."

Hulsizer says "Our kids are in good physical shape and they want to win this one badly. For 10 of them it will be their first high school football game. I feel the team is capable of winning."

Mr. Pigskin Selects The Annual Battles

S-U, Pen Argyl, Pocono Mountain Choices In Area Grid Rivalries

By MR. PIGSKIN
We're back on the beam again after picking nine of 12 games last week, hiking the of average barely over the 700 mark once more. It's only at 701 but that looks a lot better than our dip in the region of the 600 level following two disastrous weeks.

For the season, we have picked 109 right while losing on 48.

Helping our cause along were our selections in The Daily Record's "neighborhood" struggles. We missed on the Pen Argyl-Packard setto—but only by a tie. We also missed on Pius X's win over Jessup.

Hitting the right ones, however, were Northampton over Stroud Union, Nazareth over East Stroudsburg, Bangor over Hellertown, Belvidere over Pocono Mountain and Coaldale over Pleasant Valley.

So, we're not wrong all the time, that's all.

Now we head into the final stages of the football campaign with only two Pocono-State Belt games on tap this weekend.

The big one, of course, is at Pleasant Valley Saturday afternoon when the Bears of coach Wayne Hulsizer are host to visiting Pocono Mountain. This is the clash for the Old Oaken Bucket, originally a Thanksgiving Day affair which this year was switched to Saturday.

On Sunday, coach Vince Shemanski's Pius X Royals play their final game of the season when they entertain Phillipsburg Catholic.

For the area's Turkey Day battles, it will be East Stroudsburg at Stroud Union and Bangor at Pen Argyl.

So, starting with first games first, here's the way the crystal reads this week:

POCONO MOUNTAIN over Pleasant Valley—Both teams have won but past performances—as in all these annual grid rivalries—mean little, if anything. The Cardinals of coach Wayne Boyd rate a slight edge. Pocono Mountain's Mark Mikels should be the difference.

Pius X over Phillipsburg Catholic—The Royals have won five games this season and have hopes of doubling their victory mark of only three wins a year ago. It says here that's exactly what they'll do.

In the two local Thanksgiving Day battles, the crystal ball is fuzzy on both scores. But...

STROUD UNION over East Stroudsburg—On the basis of comparative scores, you can't figure this battle between the two rivals any other way. With the exception of Slatington (4-28), the Mountaineers have a heavy edge over the Cavaliers against three other common opponents.

It reads: Pen Argyl—S-burg lost, 14-13; E-burg lost, 40-0; Bangor—S-burg lost, 13-7; E-burg lost, 25-0; Lehigh—S-burg lost, 13-0; E-burg lost, 26-0. Stroud Union needs a tightened-up pass defense; East Stroudsburg needs a stronger offense.

PEN ARGYL over Bangor—This is the annual Slate Belt rivalry and the Green Knights of Pen Argyl will be shooting at a chance to gain the co-championship of the Lehigh-Northampton League. The Slaters are thus also in the role of "spoilers" in this one. Both coach Elwood Petchel of Pen Argyl, and coach Andy Moconyi of Bangor—who have done a splendid job this year—will have their football forces "up" high for this annual get-together. The Green Knights also will be shooting for an undefeated season (8-0-2). Bangor is 6-2-1. The nod has to go to Pen Argyl.

OTHER GAMES (Thanksgiving)—BETHLEHEM over Allen; PHILLIPSBURG over Easton; NORTHAMPTON over Catskill; EMMAUS over Whitehall; PALMERTON over Slatington; WILSON BORO over Nazareth; COALDALE over Lansford.

STROUDSBURG — Tickets for the Stroud Union-East Stroudsburg football game Thanksgiving Day will be available at the following business establishments.

In East Stroudsburg — Gordon's Groceries, Kresge Drug Store, Counterman's Drug Store, Lloyd's Sporting Goods and City Cut Rate.

In Stroudsburg — Flagler's Pharmacy, Rex & Derick Drug Store and Lin's Quality Sport Shop.

There will be no reserved seats for the game. Tickets are priced at $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Winners on Sunday move into the second semifinal lineup.

three that frames the bulwark of State's defensive line. The others are seniors Ralph Baker and Bernie Sabol.

Coach Rip Engle gives the three a major share of the credit for Penn State's 7-2 record.

"We haven't scored enough points to be 7-2 without our defense," Engle said.

The record books bear out his contention. The Nittany Lions have only been able to score 144 points in nine games this season, compared to 233 at this time last year. But the defense has held the opposition to just 92 points.

Rugged Defense
No team has been able to score more than two touchdowns against them. Even in the two losses the Nittany Lion defense shined.

They held Army four times within the 20 and twice inside the five before bowing 10-7. And Syracuse set up its 9-0 triumph on two long runs, one for 54 yards and a touchdown.

But the severest test comes this week in the battle against arch-rival Pitt, the nation's sixth-ranked team in total offense.

Against common opponents, Pitt shut out UCLA 20-0, while Penn State squeaked by 17-14; Pitt edged West Virginia 13-10, while State won 20-9; Pitt beat Syracuse 35-27, while Syracuse defeated Penn State 9-0; and Pitt blanked Army 28-0, but the Cadets upset State 10-7.

STROUDSBURG—The monthly meeting of the Varsity "S" Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Stroudsburg municipal building.

The committee has asked that all members report ticket and patron sales for the coming appearance of "The New Jersey Power and Light Co. Chorus" on Nov. 26.

A report on the progress of the incorporation proceedings also will be submitted.

Plans also will be completed to handle the concession stand for the Stroud Union-East Stroudsburg football game Thanksgiving Day.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, November 21, 1963
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Good influences, a novel twist, a new approach to a non-traveling project could spark fresh interest. Warnings indicated for good efforts.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't interrupt duties of extra-curricular duties, no matter how "pleasing" the latter could be. Remember obligations past due. Translate good thoughts to knowledge.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Hold back that quick report that spirals, fill certain facts. Make time and assets count realistically. A masterful touch is possible; play it well.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Built-in and built-up tensions can be eliminated. How you react and your readiness to recognize hindrances and ways to overcome them will count heavily now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This day's success is in YOUR hands. Don't wait for leads; seek hidden advantages. They're yours for the taking. Sincerely, confident, it does it.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Studying others' difficulties objectively will help you see their frustrations more clearly. Your role now is that of inspiring companion. Some changes evolving will please you.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your ability to call up reserve energy and your know-how in solving problematical or tricky situations will come in handy now. An alert eye and ear can help you to prevent difficulties.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Your work will not look so onerous when you know for certain that it is a model to an end. Handle small tasks as efficiently and enthusiastically as the larger ones.

November 24 to December 31 (Sagittarius) — You should be able to handle and interpret situations ably now. If you need more information before acting, consult an expert in the field. New opportunities in the offing.

December 2 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Forget old hurts, disappointments, and pitch in to make THIS day (and the future) the big success possible. Plenty of credits for earnest endeavors.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Embark upon a new project that really offers you new, stimulates your mind. A complex situation could contain the seed of an excellent harvest.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Where you try, you shall be rewarded, but the time of reward so depends upon how, why you try. More than a couple of factors may be involved. Catalyze on your many fine talents and you will leave a deep impression.

YOU BORN TODAY are a native of a fast-thinking, usually quick-acting sign that produces highly original people, clever experimenters, doctors, novelists, musicians. Intense loyalty and a striving for top success are innate.
